

Roadend Productions is a small independent photographic and video production company based in East Sussex specialising in producing high production value video content, whilst also achieving effective communication and maximising value for money for clients. We produce wide ranging personal, small business and corporate promotional content for web, video and press use for a variety of clients. Recent work for clients includes small local business web video promotions through to international tour web blog productions for clients such as the Sydney Symphony Orchestra and Penguin Cafe.

At Roadend Productions we offer a range of full and flexible production services fully tailored to meet the individual needs of clients, from conception and visualisation through to full production and final delivery.

With over thirty years professional broadcasting production background in factual and entertainment programming, we can bring clarity of vision to your content whilst also being able to offer a complete and flexible production solution from shooting and editing through to final delivery including video web hosting and embedding services for your website if desired.

Clients all have different aims and needs for effective communication, and at Roadend Productions we aim to provide a flexible and proactive approach which is individually tailored to help you to reach your target viewers most effectively and professionally.
